Whose Children Suffer From Behavioral Health Issues?

Anyone's child or adolescent could suffer from a behavioral health problem. Statistics from the National Institute of Mental Health (NIMH) and Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA) report:

Don't suffer in silence.

Mental health and alcohol and drug dependency affect as many as one in four families in the United States. These issues are more common than you might think.

At least 1 in 10 or as many as 6 million young people may have a serious emotional disturbance.

Symptoms of depression are found in 8 percent of adolescents and 2 percent of children (some as young as 4 years of age.)

At any given time, at least 1 in 5 children and adolescents may have a mental health problem.

Approximately two-thirds of all young people with mental health problems who need help are not getting that help.

Child & Adolescent

Understanding the Problem

Childhood and adolescence are times to discover and explore what the world has to offer. They are times to learn, develop life skills, and build strong family relationships and social ties.

Sometimes, however, life just doesn't work out that way. Some children and youths experience symptoms such as tremendous sadness, uncontrollable anger or the inability to function effectively in school or at home. Many children with problems begin to isolate themselves by staying in their rooms away from their families, friends or schoolmates.

When seemingly unsolvable mental health problems or unexplainable symptoms occur, asking Laurelwood Hospital for help is a solution you should consider. Laurelwood created its child and adolescent program for children and youths who require professional intervention and support to resolve their behavioral health issues.

What To Expect

Laurelwood's multidisciplinary treatment team provides responsive services to quickly assess your child's treatment needs and put a customized treatment plan into place to ease his/her problems and help get your child's life on track. Our board-certified child and adolescent psychiatrists, psychologists, registered nurses, licensed social workers, and milieu and activity therapists provide comprehensive behavioral health care to meet the special needs of our youngest patients.

Seven-day-a-week, twenty-four-hour-a-day services are provided for children and adolescents requiring inpatient treatment. Separate, specialized programs for children ages 3 to 12, and adolescents, 13 to 18 years of age are available. A 12-Step Program is also available at Laurelwood's counseling centers for adolescents experiencing drug and/or alcohol dependency.

cent Services

What To Expect

Parents and other family members are welcomed into treatment program participation. Your understanding of the goals and objectives set by our professional staff with your child or adolescent and the skill development required to reach those goals are imperative to your child's continuing recovery once he/she has left our inpatient or outpatient treatment setting.

Family education groups and family meetings facilitate more effective communication and help to build trust among family members.

Laurelwood's comprehensive Child & Adolescent Services include:

- Diagnostic Evaluation
- Psychiatric Assessment
- Psychological Evaluation
- Inpatient Treatment
- Individual, Family and Group Psychotherapy
- Medication Evaluation and Management
- Partial Hospitalization Program
- Intensive Outpatient Groups

There is also a specialized eating disorders program that is available for adolescents who are diagnosed with eating disorders.

In addition to inpatient treatment, Laurelwood's comprehensive continuum of treatment services offer a full range of outpatient services including a partial hospitalization program and intensive outpatient program to assist your child or adolescent in continuing his/her progress toward recovery.

Accessing Help

Accessing our services is a simple matter. You may contact us yourself to schedule an assessment and evaluation for your child or adolescent. Just call 1-800-GET-HOPE (800-438-4673).

If your child or adolescent is already in treatment with a therapist, psychologist or psychiatrist, Laurelwood will accept patient referrals from them as well. Primary care physicians, social service and community agencies, clergy, counselors, schools, courts, hospital emergency rooms and other health care professionals may also contact Laurelwood to refer your child for treatment.

Insurance and Financial Arrangements

Many insurance providers, managed care plans and public insurance plans cover treatment at Laurelwood Hospital. We provide assistance in facilitating insurance pre-certification and authorization from health benefits providers. We will also set up payment plans for self-pay patients.
